The Neuilly Plaisance community (50 companions) with a place where they can live and work. It is a place where people live together in a spirit of solidarity. Some companions live there temporarily while going through a tough phase in life and the community supports them towards social reinsertion; others see life in the community as an alternative way of life. The work will consist into helping the community in the everyday tasks such as: sorting out 2nd hand cloths, sorting out 2nd hand furniture or materials or books- helping into collecting the 2nd hand things in the people house (only strong volunteers can do that), selling the books/cloths/furniture to the public, tidying up the different little shops in the community- finally any mission useful for the well being of the community. Most of the companions have had hard times and harsh experiences. They are often tough people in appearance, who won't talk much at first. Volunteers should be mature, and aware of the difficulty of establishing communication with the companions and of gaining their confidence.
