LET'S PLAY

CREATE A PEDAGOGICAL ESCAPE GAMES WITH AN INTERCULTURAL APPROACH

Would you like to play and learn about other cultures? Add some creative joy to your life? Share your knowledge and vision of the world with others and propose workshops to the group?

This youth exchange uses the creation of an escape game as a means of meeting and sharing intercultural experiences, enabling participants to develop practices that will help them to think more deeply about themselves and their lifestyles. Over a period of 3 weeks, they will have the opportunity to set up workshops to create games, sets and costumes for the context of the escape game, which will be offered to the local population at the end of the project.

They will also have the opportunity to get to know each other and cooperate as a group in a culturally mixed environment.

The participants will work in creative workshops to imagine games and paths, costumes and scenes to build an escape game on the theme of interculturality. They will be invited to share their skills and knowledge within the group and propose times for experimenting with practices within the group of participants and also with the local population.

There is no need for specific skills, but passions to be shared and experienced. Participants will work 5 or 6 hours per day during the week.

The collective design of an escape game is itself a support for living intercultural learning.

WHO WE ARE ?

The association Sem&Vol, affiliated to Solidarités Jeunesses, works towards :

- the voluntary participation of all in social life – at local, national and international levels,
- a local development respectful of the individual, the environment and cultural heritage,
- intergenerational, intracultural, intercultural and international meetings and exchanges,
- tangible peace-building actions,
- reflection, practices and projects in the field of environmental education in line with a sustainable development approach.

The association is also expanding the action of the National Movement of Solidarités Jeunesses in the Dordogne, supporting the momentum in favour of rural life, in order to allow as many people as possible to :

- actively contribute to the development of their region (cultural heritage, heritage sites, environment, social life, ...),
- take part in national and international mobility programs (short-, medium and long-term volunteering),
- have access to diverse cultural and intercultural practices (territory development, presence of international volunteers, european exchanges),
- benefit from the resulting dynamic atmosphere which encourages people to get involved in other projects and actions adapted to the Périgord (the Dordogne),
- connect with people, create new openings and broaden their horizons.
